

HAS LEFT MEXICO AND HOME BEHIND TO END DAYS IN FOREIGN COUNTRY

DIAZ BAILS FROM VERA CRUZ FOR JOURNEY DOWN THE COAST FOR HIS HEALTH.

MADE TRIP AT NIGHT

Slipped Away from Capital at Night to Avoid Trouble with the Mobs that Threatened His Life Perhaps.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Mexico City, May 27.—Porfirio Diaz, for thirty years dictator and tyrant of Mexico, is going. Word was received in the capital today he had not only left the city secretly at two this morning, but that he had actually sailed from that port this morning.

Diaz is gone. His rule is ended. Broken in health and enfeebled in years he has not long to live and that in some foreign country. His power in the great republic that he has kept bound tightly together for thirty years is past.

Diaz left the palace this morning at two with the greatest secrecy and took a special train that was in waiting for him and closely guarded by a few loyal federal troops made the journey to Vera Cruz where he took ship this morning for a coast trip.

At that he went through his final fight on Mexican soil, his train being attacked by rioting insurgents who evidently feared that the fleeing ex-president had some of the republic's funds in his possession.

Left Mexico.

Vera Cruz, May 27.—Weak and nerve shattered reeling in a luxurious suite aboard the Hamburg-American steamship Yorubanga, where he passed the night, Porfirio Diaz, the former president today left Mexico for a coast trip until Wednesday, when he will return and set sail for across the Atlantic to Europe. The liner sailed today for Contancin. This trip is expected to brace the aged ruler for his ocean voyage.

In Control.

Mexico City, May 27.—Former president Diaz has flown and Mexico is tranquil. President De la Barra and his officials today started in earnest to restore peace.

General Figueroa of the southern Mexican insurgents who breathed defiance to the new state of affairs is now adding the general movement in putting down brigandage everywhere. It was asserted today the reorganization of the states governments will be made at once.

The screen, however, fell out and the lad fell with it, but his fall was broken by the screen. Dr. Pembler was summoned, but examination failed to reveal anything more serious than a mark on the forehead and blood in the boy's mouth, the result of biting his tongue when he fell.

ROOSEVELT BUNCOED BY SPECULATORS IS CHARGED BY GATES

John W. Gates Gives Important Testimony Today Before the Stanley Steel Committee of the House.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, May 27.—The charge that President Roosevelt was buncoed by the steel manipulators with a false statement that the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the Steel Trust would avert a panic, whereas the deal had no effect on the general market, was made today by John W. Gates, before the Stanley Steel committee of the House, to which he gave the "inside story" of the period of high finance.

The birth of the gigantic United States Steel corporation in the consolidation of many concerns at an all night meeting of J. P. Morgan, Charles M. Schwab and Gates at Morgan's home in New York, was described at length by Gates. The committee expect to call on E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation for information. Following Gary will come Gustavus Schwab, probably Morgan and Andrew Carnegie, the father of the industry, to complete a thorough probe.

PROBABLE DATE OF ADJOURNMENT FIXED

June 23 Will Mark Close of State Legislature's Session if Reappointment is Completed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 27.—Final adjournment of the legislature is believed to be probable by Friday, June 23, in the event that the last task of reappointment is completed reasonably early. This plan contemplates that the legislature take a week's vacation on June 16 in order that Gov. McGoVERN may have time allowed him by the constitution to consider the last bills of the session. These are likely to be the major appropriation bills, and it will be necessary that a quorum be present to receive and act on any veto or other messages from the governor.

Observers have commented on the fact that Gov. McGoVERN has so far not vetoed any bill this session. He has signed nearly 200 and on account of his recent trip to Vicksburg, the bills have accumulated and he will be extremely busy from now on trying to keep up with the legislature. One reason assigned for the failure of the governor to veto any bills so far is that every important measure has been taken up with him before it reached final passage, and in most cases his desires have been followed.

The withdrawal of bills sent to him through joint resolutions had been another aid to the avoidance of vetoes. Every measure points to the expedient passage on the reappointment bill, when such measures shall have been drawn by the special committee on reappointment. The unit of population for assembly districts, upon which the new reappointment will be based, is 23,388, being the figures from the last census, and for senatorial districts will be 70,872. These figures would give Milwaukee 18 assembly members, with a major fraction left over which may give that county still another representative in the lower house. Members from other parts of the state may be depended upon to fight this proposition vigorously. A redistricting may also give Milwaukee county seven members instead of six.

TUBERCULOSIS AID BILL IS FAVORED

By Joint Finance Committee Who Will Report Favoring Its Passage, It is Said.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 27.—It was reported that the joint finance committee had decided unanimously to report for passage the bill extending state aid to counties that build tuberculosis sanatoria. The proposed law grants a certain sum per patient to counties which build these institutions. It is understood that several counties already are disposed to begin building at an early date in order that resident patients in the early stages of the disease may be cared for under the most favorable auspices. The bill was introduced by Mr. Youmans in the assembly at the instance of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. Dr. Hoyt Donohoe, president of the association, has been here to speak before the committee on the bill on several occasions. Miss Edythe L. M. Tate, field representative of the association, also has been instrumental in gaining approval for the bill. It is understood that the measure has the support of Governor McGoVERN.

JUST LIKE THE WEATHER MAN

WITNESS NEARLY FAINTED ON STAND IN HEARING TODAY

Titlie Hutchins, Who Charges William Hutchins With Abandonment Had To Be Taken From Stand In Examination This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sensationalism marked the session of the municipal court this morning in the preliminary examination of William J. Hutchins, on the charge of abandonment and failure to support his wife, Titlie Hutchins. The complaining witness was put on the stand this morning and during the examination nearly fainted and had to be taken from the box to the street air outside and after she had regained her seat, she was in such a weakened condition that it was thought best to adjourn the case. Accordingly the examination was continued until nine o'clock Monday morning. The excitement started during the course of the examination when the witness stated that she had been married to Hutchins and that a child was born to them. Hutchins present wife, who had occupied a seat at his side with one arm affectionately placed around his neck, gave way to violent emotion, weeping bitterly. This upset the first Mrs. Hutchins and soon after her head dropped to one side and she asked for water. She was taken through the witness stand, but was weak through the rest of the examination and when the cross-examination was commenced by Attorney George Sutcliffe, who is conducting the case for the defense.

Mrs. Hutchins named as the complaining witness, testified today as to going to Chicago with Hutchins last June to be married and their supposed marriage in the office of a Justice of the peace. Returning she said that they had boarded in Hollet at 505 White avenue, while Hutchins was employed on the street railway. A month later, she stated they had been house-keeping, living in the house with a lady on Pleasant street. The witness stated that the latter part of September 1910 they had left Hollet, she to go to the home of her parents and he, supposedly to go on the road for two weeks to sell watches. She received two letters from him, but had not seen him since. The witness was cross-examined concerning the marriage in Chicago and from her testimony it would appear that only a mock marriage was performed.

It is alleged that there is evidence also that Hutchins was married to a young woman in La Crosse and that his present wife is the third he has been married to. He sat through the entire proceedings apparently unmoved.

CONEY ISLAND WAS NEARLY DESTROYED BY A FIRE TODAY

Animal Show That Was Here During Eagles' Carnival Was Destroyed by the Flames.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 27.—Coney Island, the play ground of New York suffered the worst fire in its history early today.

Dreamland, the largest of the amusement parks was wiped out and about four blocks adjoining, covered with booths, hotels, moving picture theatres and resorts of various types, destroyed.

The loss is estimated at two to three millions. About two hundred buildings burned and perhaps two thousand persons, concessionaires and employees were turned into streets homeless and penniless.

No lives were lost. Three persons, a woman and two nurses were overcome by smoke but they were revived without difficulty.

That fire started two hours earlier when crowds of sightseers thronged the concessions the disaster would have been an appalling one.

Tons of water from the ocean were pumped by the fire tugs and finally gained the upper hand. Captain Perara's animal show of one hundred and forty-six wild animals, the second largest collection in America, was destroyed.

The lives of thousands were endangered when the frenzied keepers turned the lions, tigers and baboons out of their cages. Some animals were killed by police guards, others were shot in their cages or burned to death.

Six tiny menagerie babies were rescued safely. The famous Dreamland Tower, crumpled at three o'clock a mass of ruins. Hundreds of narrow escapes were registered.

FORMER PASTOR IS ACCUSED OF FRAUD

Rev. Norman Plasse, of Boston, to be Tried With Others For Using Mails in Scheme to Defraud.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Mass., May 27.—Arrangements have been practically completed for the trial, next week, before Judge Dodge in the United States District Court in this city, of the Rev. Norman Plasse, former pastor; Charles H. Brooks, treasurer, and John L. Traphagen, assistant treasurer of the Redeemable Investment Company, upon the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. United States District Attorney A. P. French will have charge of the prosecution. In person, and the defendants will be represented by the Hon. Samuel J. Eldor as senior counsel, John P. Pooney and Francis M. Carroll.

The Redeemable Investment Company, which is said to have been a "get-rich-quick" concern with many victims, principally in the East, was organized about four years ago by the Rev. Mr. Plasse and several Boston promoters and business men. In the literature which the company sent out liberally throughout the country, it was stated that it controlled, as a holding company, mining, farm and timber properties in the Northwest of the United States and in British Columbia.

After the federal authorities had received several complaints from alleged victims of the company, an investigation was made and on October 12, 1910, federal officials made a raid upon the elegantly furnished office of the concern, confiscated the books and papers of the company and arrested Chas. H. Brooks, treasurer and manager. At that time the Rev. Mr. Plasse was on his way to British Columbia and it was not until three weeks later that he returned voluntarily and surrendered to the U. S. marshal. Upon his arrival in Boston, he stated that he had resigned as president of the company two months before and at the preliminary hearing he pleaded not guilty to the charge of fraudulently using the mails.

The unusual interest in this case, not only in this city, but throughout the country, is due to the fact that the principal defendant, the Rev. Norman Plasse, is well known in wider circles as a clergyman and educator. He was born at Chatham, N. Y., May 4, 1860, and came from Dutch stock. He studied at the Hudson (N. Y.) Academy; graduated from Williams College with the degree of A. B. in 1882 and with the degree of A. M. in 1885. In the following year he graduated from Yale Divinity School as a D. D. and obtained his degree of D. D. from Williams College in 1904. In June, 1888, he married Josie Charlotte Wheeler and two years later he was ordained to the Congregational ministry. He held important pastorates at Detroit, Mich., Lincoln, Neb., Madison and Cincinnati, O., and Harrington, R. I. LOCAL TEAM PLAYS IN MONROE SUNDAY

Monroe Baseball Nine Opens Season With Game On Home Grounds With Parker Pen Co. Team.

The Monroe baseball season of 1911 will be opened Sunday, when the Monroe team will be hooked up with the Parker Pen Co. team.

The Monroe diamond has been put in tip-top shape and the entire outfield has been "skinned" and is as fast a field as any league diamond can boast.

The Monroe players have all reported and their practice workouts show them to be a speedy bunch. Every man in the lineup has had experience in fast company.

The team is complete with the arrival of Lyons, from the Oshkosh league team, who will be Monroe's second pitcher. Lyons is a league player and is said to be a whirlwind in the box. This makes four longhorns in the team. Piddington, playing with Monroe last year, is another pitcher, and the team will have a third man for the box in case on a pinch. Tregasker, who caught for Grand Rapids last year, takes the position here, coming from the Dayton, Ohio, team. Gregory, who will play left field, also played in Dayton and Grand Rapids. Hower, first baseman, comes from Oshkosh. Simpson, second, was on last year's team and accompanied the Wisconsin team on the trip to Japan. Thompson, short, hails from Stoughton. Hollman, third, comes from Fond du Lac, but originated from Pittsburgh. He will catch when needed. Clayton, center field, was on last year's team and early in the season played with Muscatine, Iowa. Powell, right field, played with the Dixon Browns last year. The team is considered the best array of baseball talent ever organized in that section of the state.

Dates are being made with the strongest teams in the field and the season is bound to develop a lot of lively hits thereabouts.

The trial of "Old Man Dust" comes up Tuesday. They'll get him now—he's becoming too bold.

Fashion Note.

Oddly enough the craze for jumper dresses started in the spring, and is increasing by leaps and bounds. They are even worn at hops.

LOCAL MAN MAY BE ELECTED TO PLACE

F. H. Koebelin of This City Likely Candidate For Position as Department Commander of Knights of Pythias.

Janesville Canton No. 2, Knights of Pythias, last evening cast their vote for Fred H. Koebelin as Department Commander of the Knights of Pythias of Wisconsin to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former department commander. It is thought that Mr. Koebelin will be named for the place as word has been received from several other cantons that the Janesville man was their choice. The results of the election will be canvassed June 1 by a special committee composed of H. How, Milwaukee; H. Harkness, Superior; and James A. Fellers, of this city.

The meeting last night was made a special occasion, the ladies being the guests of honor. After music in two cantons, a social session was enjoyed and a lunch was served. About fifteen members of the local unit were here last evening for the festivities.

"Yes, they remind me of guns."
"In what way?"
"Because they are employed only to be fired."

Barrel Gong.
As a change from the Oriental gong and the one composed of pipes there is the barrel gong. This is made of brass in the form of a small barrel, and when struck with the felt hammer emits a deep, rich sound, much like a bell. Each end is tuned to a different pitch, while a round disk of brass set in the top sends forth still another sound.

In the Wake of the Measles.
The little son of Mrs. O. B. Palmer, Little Rock, Ark., had the measles. The result was a severe cough which grew worse and was so severe he could not sleep. She says: "One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely cured him and he has never been bothered since." Croup, whooping cough, measles cough all yield to Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. John Carlson, fresh from Sweden, arrived in Janesville last evening in search of his sister who is employed by a third ward family as a domestic. He was given a night's lodging and today was taken to the home where his sister lived where they held a reunion after four years separation.

RUSSIAN BARS DOWN. AMERICAN JEWS CAN ENTER

Removal of Restrictions Against Hebrew Travelers Accomplished by Continued U. S. Protests.

Washington, May 27.—The Russian government has consented to permit American Jews to enter the empire for business purposes under certain conditions which seem to be those applying to other American citizens.

Official information has been received here that Russia henceforth will accord more liberal treatment to the Jews. This is a concession to the continued protests of the United States against the discrimination by Russia against Jews who are American citizens.

This government contended that the barring of the Jews constituted a violation of the commercial treaty of 1832 between the two countries, which provided among other things for reciprocal rights of travel.

Under the procedure which has prevailed up to this time Jews were admitted to Russia only after they had obtained passports which were vouchered by the Russian embassy or by Russian consular offices in this country.

This method of procedure has, however, practically been a dead letter, as in nearly all cases the Russian official declined to visa the passports.

It was only a few months ago that a delegation of New York Jews, headed by Jacob H. Schiff, called on President Taft at the White House and urged him to abrogate the treaty with Russia because of the discrimination against Jews who were naturalized Americans and entitled to all the rights of the convention.

The president declined to do this because he believed the abrogation of the treaty would result in considerable injury to American interests and the situation would not be improved except on sentimental grounds. But the president has protested vigorously to Russia against the discrimination.

REPARING ANNUAL BANQUET OF ALUMNI

Officers of Janesville High School Alumni Association Are Arranging For Annual Gathering.

Officers of the Janesville high school Alumni Association have already begun preparations for the annual banquet which will be given at the auditorium in the high school building Friday evening, June 16th. Owing to the fact that it was decided last year to elect officers at the banquet instead of several weeks previous, it has not been necessary to call a meeting so early this year.

However, according to a statement of the president of the association, today plans for the event have already been started and the plans to call a meeting of the members in the near future for the purpose of electing a committee on arrangements. At present several speakers have been secured for the most grand address.

It is believed that there will be a larger attendance than usual at the banquet this year and more than ordinary interest is noted among the graduates of the institution. Within a few days the secretary of the association will send out notices to the alumni calling for the annual meeting and requesting the payment of dues.

Walsh and Morse to Know Their Fate Saturday.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—From no less an authentic source than President Taft himself comes the statement that his decision on the pardon applications of John R. Walsh and Charles W. Morse, the Chicago and New York bankers, will be reached next Saturday. Both men were convicted for violation of the National Banking laws, and both men were reported in poor health. It is anticipated here that the decision will provide for the pardoning of Walsh in September, but that there will be no change in the sentence of Morse.

GO IN FOR DAIRYING IN THE "Stanley Country"

The cut-over Hardwood Lands in the Stanley Country have all the natural conditions necessary for successful dairying, such as climate, soil, pure water and an abundance of clover and wild grasses. When the timber is cut, the clover becomes King and creates pasture unsurpassed anywhere, thus paying for the expense of preparing the soil for the raising of small grain, etc. Wisconsin has over one thousand creameries and nearly two thousand cheese factories, which is one-half of the creameries and one-sixth of the cheese factories in the whole United States.

THE STUMP PROBLEM IS NOW SOLVED. This was formerly the one obstacle that the new settler in Wisconsin had to contend with. What drainage and irrigation did for the south and west, the powerful land clearing machines, clearing from three to five acres a day, will do for the cut-over lands in Wisconsin.

Why go thousands of miles away from your old home and settle on the expensive lands of the west and south when good fertile lands can be had at $15.00 per acre in the high priced communities within a few hours' ride from the world's best markets. Call and see me or write for descriptive folder.

SCHOOL BOY'S POEM ON RECENT BANQUET

Charles Gray of Seventh Grade of Lincoln School Wrote Poem to Commemorate Occasion.

Following the banquet which was given by the seventh grade of the Lincoln school under the direction of their teacher, Miss Doherty, Thursday noon, Charles Gray composed a poem in honor of the event. Special credit is due to Stanley Garbut and Arthur Welsh in the preparation of the dinner. The poem follows:

THE BANQUET.
On the twenty-fourth of May
The seventh graders worked all day,
Cleaning and fixing a spare room
For a banquet to be held at noon.

At twelve o'clock the feast began
And ended up at one.
The teachers came as guests,
The cakes and salads to eat.

When every one was in his chair,
A busy hour filled the air.
After talking together for a while,
A dinner was served in two-course style.

Brick ice cream was served
In a dainty little style,
Such a fine banquet
Won't occur for quite a while.

The guests said it was fine
For the pupils to ask them to dine,
And, as they passed out of the hall
They thanked us one and all.

Why the Factory making 20,000 Cars gives you a better machine for less money than the Factory making but 5,000 Cars

WERE each maker to build the same number of automobiles, sell them at the same price, employ the same number of men, buy their materials at the same price, have the same number of officials, pay the same salaries, etc., there could not be much variation either in the quality of the material used or of the actual value of the respective cars. But they don't—and therein is the answer.

One maker manufactures 5,000 cars a year. His competitor makes 20,000 during the same period. It is admitted that the factory cost of an automobile includes at least as much for non-productive labor as for productive. By non-productive is meant the foremen, superintendents, bookkeepers, clerks, general office force and others necessary to superintend the productive labor, that of the workmen who actually make the goods.

The most profitable method of operating a factory is by working it to its full capacity. Productive labor can be increased at will for this purpose, but the non-productive ordinarily remains stationary and earns in proportion to the increase of the product, or, to be exact, lessens its cost per car as the output is increased.

Everyone knows it costs more per ton to buy coal in single tons than by thousands of tons. That same principle applies to all merchandise, whether it be for steel, leather, wheels, hair for upholstery, tires, springs, etc. Therefore the manufacturer making 20,000 cars can naturally sell his product for less than he who only makes 5,000 cars, because he buys to better advantage.

Getting down to figures, and assuming that the non-productive and overhead charges in a factory amount to $1,000,000 per year, and the product of that factory is 5,000 cars, it will be seen that the cost per car for these two items alone will be $200, but if that factory makes 20,000 cars, the cost per car is only $50.

Let us go still further. Any factory that can manufacture 20,000 cars must be splendidly equipped with automatic and all other labor-saving and money saving devices, which are too costly to be practical in the plant making but 5,000 cars. The parts must be exact, or the enormous output is impossible. Departments are specialized in large factories, which is impossible in small establishments, and the men working therein naturally become more expert, and consequently produce more rapidly.

The average automobile company is loaded down with titled officials, most of whom are high salaried men, another expense that must be reckoned with in establishing the price of the goods, since the consumer pays it.

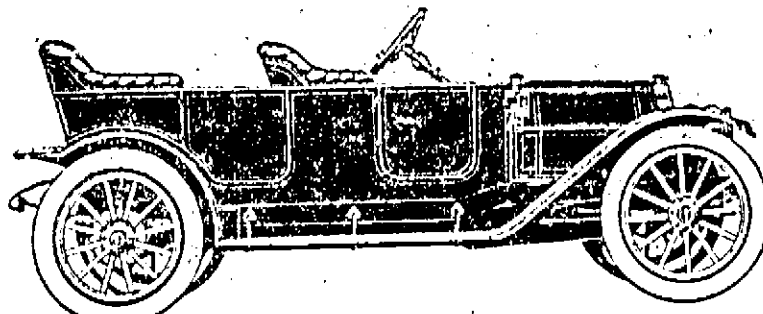

Still another feature that has entered into the business in the last two or three years, and that is the indebtedness, bonded and otherwise, of the various manufacturers, all of which is more or less public. The factory without that indebtedness necessarily carries less overhead expenses, since the interest on bond issues and preferred stock must be paid, and all of which increases the cost per car, for which the buyer pays.

The Overland is made by the Willys-Overland Company, which is owned by one man, John N. Willys. It has no bonded or other indebtedness, the stock is all held by him; he dictates its policies, oversees its methods, and is nearer the dealer and the ground than any other automobile manufacturer.

Furthermore, it is a well known fact in the industry that the Overland Company spends less per car for marketing purposes than any other maker in the business. Its selling force is admittedly most efficient and most economical. No man connected with the company draws out a penny unless he has earned it. There are no useless high salaried titled officials. Nobody wastes. Everybody produces. And it is this sort of an organization that gives you the most in an automobile for the least money.

This year the Overland Company will build 20,000 cars. (The 20,000 people that purchase them have a feeling of security—they know they have made their money go the furthest and saved a good several hundred dollars in the bargain.)

It is a positive fact that the Overland at $1250 is the equal of any $1,500 car on the market today. It is made of just as fine materials—just as accurately produced—just as thoroughly finished—just as well appointed. In fact, if you will take the specifications of our Model 51 and compare them item for item with any $1,500 car made you will quickly see how $1,250 will buy as much if not more than $1,500. We are waiting to go further into these facts with you. We will be glad to call with an Overland and let you make some comparisons and look it over. Write us for an Overland book. The receipts of the evening amounted to over $100, which will be expended for school purposes.

BIG NEW YORK FINANCIER IN SERIOUS CONDITION FOLLOWING AN OPERATION.

WALL STREET IS SURPRISED

Extraordinary Efforts Are Made to Keep Fact of Financier's Condition From Public—Plan His Removal to England.

New York, May 27.—Thomas F. Ryan, the big New York traction magnate and financier, is in a serious condition at his residence in Fifth avenue.

On Wednesday last he underwent an operation and while it was said that he was "doing nicely" it is understood that his condition is grave. Plans have been made for his removal to England.

The fact that Mr. Ryan was ill came as a surprise to Wall street. Extraordinary efforts had been made to keep it secret.

None Would Tell Facts. Clarke and stenographers in the offices of Allan Ryan and his brother, Clendenin, had been instructed to deny all knowledge of it and to say, if asked, they believed Mr. Ryan was at his estate in Oak Ridge, near Richmond, Va., where he went a week or so ago.

To watchmen and other subordinates at his house similar instructions had been given, but despite all these precautions Wall street learned the truth and quickly transmitted it.

After it had been found that the secret was out, persons close to the financier admitted that Mr. Ryan had been taken ill suddenly in Virginia a week ago, and that he had been rushed here secretly by a special train.

Nature of Disease Unknown. Just what was the nature of the disease they could not tell, but it is believed it was some form of kidney trouble from which it was said Mr. Ryan had been suffering for years.

The operation, they added, was performed by Dr. George David Stewart. Doctor Stewart referred all inquiries to Mr. Ryan's private secretary, who could not be found.

Commercial Men at Lake Mohonk Send Telegram to Taft.

Mohonk Lake, N. The conference adopted the Kirchwey resolution creating a national council for arbitration and peace.

His Disadvantage.
"My wife is always able to buy things much more cheaply than I can."
"How do you account for it?"
"Well, when I am dealing with a pretty girl clerk I haven't the heart to let her think I can't afford to pay the first price asked, and when a man is waiting on me I am always afraid it may lead to a fight if I intimate to him that he is lying when he says he is not authorized to cut the price."

The London county council has been advertising for sale a number of disused "horse tram cars," suitable for "bungalows, houseboats, portable buildings, tool and garden sheds, contractors' offices, cycle and motor houses and for use on farms, potato fields, hopfields, football and cricket grounds."

SPECIAL WASH GOODS SALE

One Week of Exceptional Wash Goods Bargains

will be given to each customer buying wash goods during this sale.

In presenting our customers with a souvenir of our Cotton and White Goods sale, we feel we could give them nothing more interesting than a boll of natural cotton, for there is certainly no commercial plant so pretty. It might well be called "The Commercial Rose", for there is no garden more beautiful than a snow-white cotton field. And again, no plant has been so prominently connected with history, song and romance as cotton of the South.

It might be of interest to some of our customers to pull the seed out of the boll that we have presented them and plant them, and by the use of a hot house late in the season, they might grow cotton here; anyway they could see the young plant while it was growing.

See Our Special Window Display

It shows cotton as it looks when ripe and other interesting processes. This is a very interesting exhibit and worth a walk down town.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

FOR man must work and woman must weep,
And the sooner it's over the sooner to sleep—
And good-bye to the bar and its meaning.

"Oh, I wish I were a man. I could do so much more in my work."
It was Molly, the little stenographer lady, who enunciated that sentiment.
She made her point before a group of half a dozen women, and four out of the six promptly echoed her sentiment.

"Just imagine being able to ask anyone you wanted to marry you, and not simply sit and wait to be asked," said the author's wife. "Aren't they lucky?"

"Wouldn't it be great to be able to travel around anywhere you liked and see the world and have adventures it never has to thing about propriety?" mused the latter girl.

The other two didn't give any reason, just said they'd always wished they'd been born boys instead of girls.

Have you ever noticed how often you hear this sentiment expressed among women, especially of the younger generation?

"How I wish I had been born a man!"

Why, to one young woman I've heard say she was heartily glad she was a woman, I've heard ten say they wish they had been born on the other side of the fence.

Incidentally, I can't recall that I ever heard a man say he wished he had been a woman. Can you?

Isn't it queer?

And yet I can't quite condemn the attitude, because I must confess that I've been one of the ten sometimes.

But I do think there is a good deal more on the reverse of the medal than many of us who envy men their freedom and their opportunity to do big things realize.

For instance, I've often heard one of these would-be-men say with a sigh of relief when the work went badly, "Oh, well, I suppose I shall get married and stop work some day."

Please remember that a man, no matter how strenuous and exhausting the competition, no matter how disagreeable the conditions of his work may be, cannot look forward to any such relief. Marriage means to him merely the shouldering of new and tremendous responsibilities. He cannot fall now, he cannot drop out of the ranks. He must keep on, no matter how tired and weary of it all he may be, once he has given " hostages to fortune " in the shape of a wife and children.

Again, we think it must be splendid to be able to seek out the one you love and woo her, instead of sitting with folded hands hoping against hope that the right man will come for you, which, like as not, he never will.

But turn the medal over again. Isn't it wonderful to know that the one who lays his heart at your feet has chosen you out of all the human beings he knows to be his mate? The man can only know that the woman has chosen him out of the few who have sought her, not out of all. There is one joy in being chosen out of all the world.

There are but two ways in which the medal you thought had only one side can be turned over.

Doubtless you can find others for yourself.

Let us turn the medal over again. Isn't it wonderful to know that the one who lays his heart at your feet has chosen you out of all the human beings he knows to be his mate? SEE THE HOME LAND FIRST.

Millions of dollars of American money is spent every year in foreign travel. It is an indication that the American people have a keen desire to see the world and to get out of the narrow rut a stay-at-home policy would engender. Americans as a class are broadminded and sympathetic.

But with all their traveling and their right-seeing they are short-sighted in the fact that they neglect to see their own country.

Of the thousands of Americans who go abroad every year, only a small per cent have traveled to any extent in their own land. Only a small per cent have any general knowledge even of their own country.

What most of them know is superficial. It lacks both breadth and depth, and therefore authority.

And this is the deplorable part. In a country full of wonders, full of the interesting and the striking, so important of most of them. To be ignorant of the thousand charms that have made this one of the most wonderful countries upon which the sun shines.

There are thousands of people who rush off to Europe who never know anything of the Hudson river, except what they see from the car window. There are thousands who almost yearly take the first steamer in the spring for Europe who know nothing of the Great Lakes, except the glimpse caught from the car window or what they read about in the magazines.

There are thousands of persons who go abroad who know nothing of the history and charm of portions of Virginia, or Kentucky, or Tennessee or other portions of the South, know nothing of the many attractions of the Middle West, who have never set foot in the quaint and interesting districts of Pennsylvania that are a delight to those who have an investigating turn of mind and have done so. There are thousands of persons who have deferred their visits to the Rocky Mountain regions and beyond until they could spare the time from their European trips.

And all this time a great wonderland has been awaiting them! In every section there is something of enchantment, something at which to wonder, something which is matchless in its interest and something which will form the substantial background for information gathered in European travel.

Let us this season change the order. Let us undertake the task of seeing our own land with minds open for information and inspiration. Switzer land has nothing to offer in comparison with the mountain beauty of some of the mountain regions of the West. Italy has nothing finer than portions of California. The Rhine land has nothing finer in natural grandeur than the Hudson river and its contiguous territory. There are few portions of the Old World that offers so much real charm as New England and there is certainly no place in the world where there is so much that is quaint, so much that is charming and novel as in the Southern states. And for a change, one may say that there are portions all along the Canadian border that are bits transplanted from Europe into the virgin soil of the new world.

Of course we are without the castles, the countless ruins and the great and noble monuments and statues and the picture galleries and whatnot, but for all these we have compensations.

See Europe by all means. It is part of one's education to see as much of the world as possible, but it is a duty to see and know one's own land first.

GLORIOUS DAYS FOR THE ARDENT ANGLER

BEAUTIFUL BROOKLETS OF WISCONSIN NOW BECOMING THE MECCA FOR ALL FISHERMEN.

MANY FINE STREAMS

Are Found in Wisconsin—Observance of the State Game Laws Is Urged—Time of Open Season.

Outside the pull of baseball, warm summer breezes bring desires for other bucolic pastimes. The golf enthusiast's thoughts turn to greens and clubs, the schoolboy to the swimming pool, the sportsman to the trout stream. The season for trout fishing is now open, and the majority by far, the sportsman cooped in office or behind desk has pleasant, almost tantalizing visions which border on mirages of a rod, a shady nook, a swiftly moving stream, the whirr of the reel and the quick snap of the cord which betoken the catch.

Wisconsin, blessed as it is with its many inland lakes is the mecca for sportsmen from every section of the United States, and it is at this time each year that the blue waters of the many streams send out their silent but irresistible call and with a strong effect, business cares and all are forgotten to wander in the cool waters with rod and reel to search for the elusive trout, bass or pickerel or whatever game fish the discipline of Isaac Walton may have most fancy to.

The trout stream in the northern section of the Badger state that the real angler turns his attention. Many little lakes have for the most part seen their day, and though they still draw their quota of fishermen, they have no attraction for the real and out sportsman, who revels in solitude and whose joy is the stream which is traversed but once a year.

Many Streams in State. There are many such in the state, notable among them being: Clam river, Daugherty's brook, Hay river, and Mud creek, reached from Shell lake; the Nankago river, Spring brook station; the Kankakee, Big brook, Spring creek, Twin brooks, Cap brook, Eighteen mile creek, Owens creek, Spring lake, Colburn's lake, Hayberg's lake, reached from Cable; Eighteen mile and Twenty mile creek, Ramsey creek, reached from Grand View. There are also the Totogatic river, Yellow river, the Brule, White river, and a score of other good angling places where Wisconsin troutmen go weekly.

The season for trout has already opened, also for catfish, pickerel, pike, muskellunge, and sturgeon. The pursuit for black bass will start on June 1. The recent agitation in favor of more restricted season for game of all sorts has borne fruit and there is a general awakening among the followers of rod and reel for the protection and preserving of game.

Sportsmen themselves can be of great aid to the state warden by reporting all violations and above all can materially aid themselves by acting in true sportsman style. All fish taken should be returned to the water and in many other ways work to bene- fit the sport.

State Season Opens June 1. Perhaps a few excerpts from the fish laws of the state would aid in their observance and also prove of benefit to the fisherman and the sportsman, who are contemplating a jaunt into the state.

HARRIS. (June 1 to March 1.) Unlawful to have in possession at any one time over fifteen black, orange or yellow bass or to retain any bass less than ten inches; all undersized bass must be returned without injury to the waters from whence taken.

TROUT. (April 15 to Sept. 1.) Unlawful to ship any variety, excepting lake trout, without accompanying tag shipment or To sell, offer for sale or barter any variety of brook trout, or To have in possession more than forty-five brook trout which were caught in any of the inland waters of this state during any one day of the open season, or To take and retain any variety less than six inches in length. All such to be returned to the water where taken without injuring the fish.

PIKE, CATFISH. (April 15 to Sept. 1.) Unlawful for any person to take, catch, kill or have in his possession, pike of any variety of less than one pound—round or undressed weight. Or any catfish of less than one and one-half pounds, round or undressed weight, or less than one pound dressed weight, or of any black bass less than ten inches in length. Penalty: Fine or imprisonment, or both, for violations.

MOTION OF COMPANY

GRANTED BY JUDGE

Fairbanks-Morse Successful in Motion Entered Circuit Court Yesterday in Monahan Case.

By allowing the motion of the counsel of the Fairbanks-Morse company in the circuit court yesterday afternoon, in which they asked for a change in the answers to certain questions in the special verdict of the jury, giving James Monahan to the extent of $8,000, Judge Grimm dismissed the case of the plaintiff. This action amounts to a reversal of the decision of the jury, cutting Monahan off from any damages. Mr. Monahan, counsel for the plaintiff, stated this morning that the case would be appealed to the supreme court.

In entering the above motion before Judge Grimm, J. B. Doe, the company's counsel requested the changing of the answer to the question regarding contributory negligence. The question of the special verdict asked if there was any contributory negligence and the answer of the jury was "no." By yesterday's action this was changed to an affirmative answer thus throwing the case out.

BANQUET CLOSES YEAR FOR THE MEN'S CLUB

Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church and Their Ladies Bring Season to Close—With Banquet.

Members of the Men's club of the Presbyterian church and ladies gathered last evening at the church parlors upon the occasion of the annual banquet which marks the close of the season. After the homelike "spread" had been served, numerous speeches in a humorous vein were heard as the weather conditions would not permit anything of a weighty nature. The speech-making was presided over by Prof. J. B. Blair in a very pleasing and entertaining manner.

The program was opened by a reading by Miss Ruth Humphrey which was very cleverly done. An interesting account of his travels abroad was given by Alexander Galbraith, who told of his impressions of the Old World and what he considered the European thought of Americans. He said that the average European considered America as a land of money-makers and reformers.

The next number was a musical selection by the male quartette, which called forth hearty applause. This was followed by a humorous talk by W. H. Blair which was very much enjoyed by the listeners, after which Miss Margaret Youngelass entertained the members with a series of humorous stories. Clever talks by Mrs. J. G. Rexford and L. C. Jackson were enjoyed after which J. G. Rexford gave a light discourse on woman's suffrage. He said that, historically speaking, woman had always been the dominant power, as was shown in the episode in the Garden of Eden.

Mrs. Archie Reid gave a short talk and following a selection by the Latin quartette and a short address by Rev. Laughlin, the company broke up.

EVANSVILLE WOMAN CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Chester Miller Passed Away at Her Home After an Illness of Nearly Four Years.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Evansville, May 27.—This community was shocked by the sudden death of Mrs. Chester Miller, who passed away shortly after twelve o'clock last night at her home on First street.

Mrs. Miller had been in poor health for the past four years, but had not been seriously ill until Tuesday afternoon. Death resulted from diabetes.

Julia Maxon was born at Milton, Wis., June 14, 1888, and was the eldest daughter of Albertus C. and Sarah E. Maxon. In early childhood she removed with her parents to Evansville.

Here on December 25, 1887, she was united in marriage to Chester E. Miller. The greater part of her married life was spent on a farm near Cooksville, but for the past six years the family have resided in Evansville.

She was a faithful member of the Free Baptist church, having been converted at the age of sixteen and united with the church under the pastorate of Rev. A. J. Marshall. She was an active member of the Missionary society of the church, and had held various offices in the W. C. T. U. She was also a member of the Afternoon club.

Her husband and parents, three surviving children are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother. They are Albertus, Chester and Lucille, also a sister, Mrs. Lucile Maxon wife of Rev. O. D. Moon of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The funeral services will be held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Free Baptist church, her pastor, Rev. T. H. Myers, officiating. The remains will be laid to rest in Maple Hill cemetery.

Beggar Alone Spoke English. People make a great mistake as to the prevalence of English on the continent, says Rev. A. N. Cooper in Chambers' Journal. "In my walk to Rome, a journey of some 900 miles, I only once met a man on the road who could speak English, and he was the only man who begged of me."

FEED YOU MONEY Feed Your Brain, and It will Feed You Money and Fame

"Ever since boyhood I have been especially fond of meats, and I am convinced I ate too rapidly, and failed to masticate my food properly. The result was that I found myself, a few years ago, afflicted with ailments of the stomach, and kidneys, which I suffered seriously with my business. At last I took the advice of friends and began to eat Grape-Nuts instead of the heavy meats, etc., that had constituted my former diet. I found that I was at once benefited by the change, that I was soon relieved from the heartburn and indigestion that used to follow my meals, that the food I ate from my kidney affection had ceased. My nerves, which used to be unsteady, and my brain, which was slow and lethargic from a heavy diet of meats and greasy foods, had, in a moment, but gradually, and none the less surely, been restored to normal efficiency. Now every nerve is steady and my brain and thinking faculties are quicker and more acute than for years past. After my old style breakfasts I used to suffer during the forenoon from a feeling of weakness which hindered me seriously in my work, but since I began to use Grape-Nuts food I can work until dinner time with all ease and comfort." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

KEITH OF THE BORDER

A TALE OF THE PLAINS
By RANDALL PARRISH
Author of 'My Lady of the South'
Illustrations by DEAN HENNING

"Sure; it's clear enough how that came about. The boy told him about the lost heiress his father was searching after, and showed him his sister's picture. 'Black hair!' instantly recognized her resemblance to Christie Macalre, and thought he saw a good chance for some easy money. He needed the papers, however, to ascertain exactly the terms of the will, and what would be necessary for the identification. He never intended to go into court, but hoped to either get Walte out of the way, or else convince him that Christie was the girl, relying on her gratitude for his profits. When Walte played into his hands by coming to Carson City the chance was too good to be lost. I'm not sure he meant to kill him, but he did mean to have those papers at any cost. Probably you know the rest—the girl was easy, because she was so ignorant of her parentage, and nothing prevented Walte from winning except that Walte got mad and decided to fight. That knocked over the whole thing."

They were outside now, and the first touch of the cool night air, the first glance up and down the noisy street, brought Keith to himself, his mind ready to grapple with the problem of hope's disappearance. It seemed to him he had already looked everywhere, yet there was nothing to do except to continue the search, only more systematically. The sheriff assumed control—clear headed, and accustomed to that sort of thing—calling in Hickey and his deputies to assist, and fairly combing the town from one end to the other. Not a rat could have slipped unobserved through the net he dragged down that long street, or its intersecting alleys—but it was without result; nowhere was there found a trace of either the gambler or his companion.

They dug into saloons, bagnios, dance-halls, scrutinizing back rooms and questioning inmates; they routed out every occupant of the hotel, invaded boarding houses, and explored shacks and tents, indifferent to the protests of those disturbed—but without result. They found several who knew Hawley, others who had seen the two together passing by the lighted windows of the Truenders, but beyond that—nothing. Convinced, at last, that the parties sought were not alive in Shoridan, and beginning to fear the worst, the searchers separated, and began spreading forth over the black surrounding prairie, and by the light of lanterns seeking any semblance of trail. There was no lack of volunteers for this work, but it was daylight before the slightest clue presented itself. Keith, with the sheriff and two or three others, had groped their way outward until, with the first flush of dawn, they found themselves at the opening of a small rocky ravine, near the foot of 'Boots Hill.' Peering down into its still shadowed depths, they discerned what appeared like a body lying there motionless. Keith sprang down beside it, and turned the rigid form over until the dead face was revealed in the wan light—it was that of the red-mouthed Scott. He staggered back at the recognition, barely able to ejaculate.

The sheriff was bending instantly above the corpse, searching for the truth.

"You know the fellow?"

"Yes, his name was Scott."

"Well, he's been dead some hours, at least six I should say; shot just above the eye, and good heavenly look here, Keith, at the size of this bullet wound; that's no man's gun in this country—no more than a '32' I'd say."

"Miss Walte had a small revolver. She must have shot the fellow. But why did they leave the body here to be discovered?"

The sheriff arose to his feet, prowl about in the brightening glow of the dawn.

"They were in a hurry to get away, and knew he wouldn't be found before morning. A six hours' sleep would be

You—you asked 'em if you believed in me all the time—"

"I did, Christie; you bet I did," broke in the delighted doctor, every nerve tingling. "I'd 'a' cleaned out that whole gang if you'd only said so, but I reckon now it was better to let them tell all they knew. It was like a thunder storm clearing the atmosphere."

"Oh, it was, indeed! Now I know who I am—who I am! Isn't that simply glorious? Sit down, Doctor Fairbairn, there in the big chair where I can see your face. I want to talk, talk, talk; I want to ask questions, a thousand questions; but it wouldn't do any good to ask them of you, would it? You don't know anything about my family, do you?"

"Not very much. I am afraid, only that you have got a splendid pretty half-sister," admitted the man, emphatically, "and old Walte possesses the vilest temper ever given a human being. He's no blood kin to you, though."

"No, but he is awfully good underneath, isn't he?"

"Got a heart of pure gold, old Walte. Why, I've seen him cry like a baby over one of his men that got hurt."

"Have you known him, then, for a long while?"

"Ever since the Spring of '81. I was brigaded with him all through the war, and had to cut a bullet or so out of his hide before it ended. If there was ever a fight, Willie Walte was sure to get his share. He could swear some then, but he's improved since, and I reckon now he could likely claim the championship."

"Did—did you know my mother?" and Christie leaned forward, her eyes suddenly grown misty. "I haven't even the slightest memory of her."

The doctor's heart was tender, and he was swift to respond, reaching forth and grasping the hand nearest him. He had made love before, yet somehow this was different; he felt half afraid of this woman, and it was a new sensation altogether, and not unpleasant.

"I saw her often enough in those days, but not since. She was frequently in camp, a very sweet-faced woman; you have her eyes and hair, as I remember. Walte ought to have re-

"You Know What I Mean—That I Love You!"

ognized you at first sight. By heaven! that was what made me so infernally mad, the mullah obstinacy of the old fool. Your mother used to come to the hospital tent, too; one of the best nurses I ever saw. I thought, she was a beauty then, but she's some older by this time," he paused regretfully. "You see, I'm no spring chicken, myself."

Her eyes were upon his face, a slight flush showing in either cheek, and she made no effort to withdraw her imprisoned hand.

"You are just a nice age," with firm conviction. "Boys are tiresome, and I think a little gray in the hair is an improvement. Oh, you mustn't imagine I say this just to please you—I have always thought so, since—well, since I grew up. Besides, fleshy men generally look young, because they are so good natured, perhaps. How old are you, Doctor?"

"It isn't the gray hairs I mind, either."

Common Philanthropy.

Some people are so anxious lest men should be spoiled by the possession of too much money that they strive to get it all themselves. This kind of philanthropy is not uncommon.

"That isn't old; that's just right."

"I've been afraid you looked on me as being an old fogey!"

"I should say not," indignantly. "Why should you ever think that?"

"Well, there were so many young fellows hanging about."

"Who?"

"Oh, Keith, and Hawley, and that bunch of officers from the fort; you never had any time to give me."

She laughed again, her fingers tightening in their clasp on his hand.

"Why, how foolish! Hawley is older than you are, and I was only playing with Keith. Surely you must know that now. And as to the officers, they were just fun. You see, in my profession, one has to be awfully nice to everybody."

"But didn't you really care for Hawley?" he insisted, bluntly probing for facts.

"He—he interested me," admitted the girl, hesitatingly, her eyes darkening with sudden anger. "He lied and I believed him—I would have loved any one who came with such a story. Oh, Dr. Fairbairn," and she clung to him now eagerly, "you can't realize how hungry I have been for what he brought me. I wanted so to know the truth of my birth. Oh, I hated this life!" She hung her disengaged hand into the air, with a gesture expressive of disgust. "I was crazy to get away from it. That was what made the man look good to me—he—he promised so much. You will believe me, won't you? Oh, you must; I am going to make you. I am a singer in music halls; I was brought up to that life from a little girl, and of course, I know what you Western men think of us as a class. Hawley showed it in his whole manner toward me, and I resented it; just for that, deep down in my heart, I hated him. I know it now, now that I really understand his purpose; but some way, when I was with him he seemed to fascinate me, to make me do just as he wished. But you have never been that way; you—you have acted as though I was somebody—somebody nice, and not just a music-hall singer. Perhaps it's just your way, and maybe, deep down you don't think I'm any better than the other do, but—but I want you to think I am, and I am going to tell you the truth, and you must believe me—I am a good girl."

"Great God! of course you are," he blurted out. "Don't you suppose I blurted? That isn't what has been bothering me, is it? Why, I'd 'a' fought any buck who'd 'a' sneered at you. What I wanted to know was, whether or not you really cared for any of those duffers. Can you tell me that, Christie?"

She lifted her eyes to his face, her lips parted.

"I can answer anything you ask."

"And you do not care for them?"

"No."

He drew his breath sharply, his round face rosy.

"Haven't you heard? She's suing him for divorce on the ground of incompatibility."

A 'Cascaret' Makes

You Feel Tip Top

No need of days when you are not at your best—no need of Headache, Biliousness, Dizziness or Bad Stomach.

Most of our dull days are due to inactive bowels. Nearly all of our minor ills could be avoided by a little candy Cascaret. Also, half of our greater ills, isn't it foolish to suffer when there is such a pleasant way to avoid it?

Cascarets save the hours. They save the time that we waste if we are not at our best. They bring good cheer. For the blues and ill temper rarely occur when the bowels are properly helped. They make the breath sweet, the complexion clear, the eyes bright. All this for ten cents per week.

In the old days people let matters run until they needed a large dose of physic. Then they took something severe—like castor oil, salts or cathartics. That meant abuse to the bowels. These are the days of the gentle and natural—the days of Cascarets. Carry a 10 cent box always with you. For the right way to take them is one at a time—just as soon as you need it.

Mother's Pumpkin Pie.

A man's measure of success is shown up in the quality and quantity of how his meals arrive in time. The supreme end of everything even in politics is pie; pie for the elect few, it may be; pie for the great mass—perhaps; but nevertheless now and forevermore the one great cry is pie. And where is the pie that beats the good old pumpkin, pumpkin pie like mother made?

Real Cupidity.

Cure every kidney ill.

Janesville citizens endorse them.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 118 Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble for ten or twelve years. My kidneys became sluggish and their failure to do their work properly, caused me to become weak and helpless. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and often my joints were sore and swollen. I had almost given up hope of getting relief when I had the good fortune to hear of Donn's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. and they soon restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I advise other kidney sufferers to try this remedy." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

Confirmed Proof.

Mrs. Johnson was interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she added to the above: "I take pleasure in again recommending Donn's Kidney Pills and advising their use in all cases of kidney trouble. I am still free from kidney complaint and my back does not bother me to any extent."

Do Your Cooking in the Cool

A hot kitchen is little better than a prison in summer. But the range is there, so all the cooking and the washing must be done there, too.

What a relief it would be to move the range where you pleased. You can do this with a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove—cook your dinner out on the porch, if you like. It is the only range that is really portable—that works equally well in any place. There are no connections to be made, as in a gas range; no wiring, as with an electric stove; no sooty flues and ash-filled grates, as with coal or wood.

The long, enameled chimneys carry the heat directly up to saucepans, oven or boiler; you get full value from your fuel, without waste.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Flues never clogged throughout. The 2 and 3 burner stoves can be built with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with deep shelves, towel racks, etc.

Old Man Dust Will Meet

His WaterLoo Now

He's become too bold—he has laughed at the tormented posse, but he is about to hang himself. Any outlaw who turns his back and sits down when a posse is after him ought to be caught. At last they've secured the right weapon, his only foe.

He'll be Shot on Sight Watch! It's the Last Day
